

Mirror editorials, etc.

Just an example

The summer months of June, July, and August of 1981 are almost history.

As they pass into the books, they will not be easily forgotten. Especially, the last week of August.

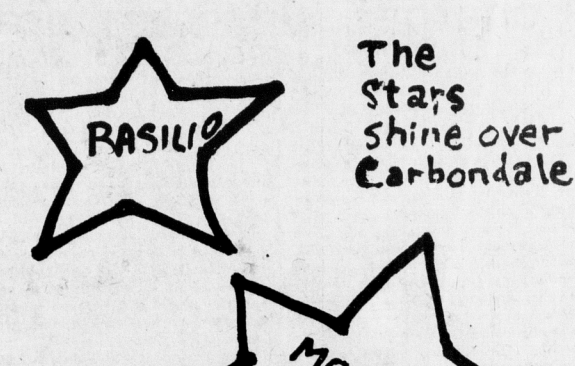

Elsewhere in the pages of the Carbondale Mirror is a listing of the events scheduled for Pioneer Days. Every night in Memorial Park opposite city hall will be entertainment galore — bands, singers, dancers, gymnastics, karate, twirlers, magicians, etc. It's not proper for journalists to use etc., but there is so much happening that week that we're afraid to leave something out.

It all starts on Sunday, Aug. 23, with the Miss Pioneer Days Pageant at the Carbondale Area High School.

Then on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 29, there is the parade.

If there were no bands or floats, it would be worth attending just to see the grand marshalls — Clayton Moore, the Lone Ranger of television fame. How can we forget?

Letters to the editor

Letters to the editor of the Carbondale Mirror are invited from readers and non-readers alike. Fast play and accuracy are the basic guidelines. The name, address, and telephone number of the writer is requested, but will be withheld from publication should the letterwriter ask so and provide a good reason. The editors of the Mirror reserve the right to edit or reject any letter.

Good luck!

Dear editor:

Couldn't help but notice the sign in your storefront window on Fairbrook Street. I just want to wish you the best of luck in your newspaper. Hope to see lots of news about the area in it.

Waiting to see

She is 21 today. Where did the years go? She's 21 and she has no idea how it is affecting her. Mother, I've cried for days.

No child was ever more wanted... ever more loved. We waited 8½ years for her, through applications and physicals and delays and discussions and hopes and dreams.

The first time we ever saw her she was 4½-month-old, weighing 4½ pounds, with bright red hair and China blue eyes. And a wet diaper that I had no idea how to change. Neither did the adoption worker.

And our world began to change from that day forward. We rushed out to buy a Kwik-Mat mattress, a maple crib, stacks of baby clothes and bottles and adoption announcements.

And we named her Susan Chenoweth. Susan because that was always how we spoke of her before she came, and the middle name because my great-grandmother's name was Anne Chenoweth, and it's appropriate to give a chosen child a family name, isn't it?

And we law her through teething pain and corrective shoes, allergies and asthma attacks, chicken pox and Rosacea, history exams and broken hearts.

One morning I woke up and she was five, and we celebrated with an outdoor party for her entire nursery school and a rented pony. And we bought her roller skates and bikes, and doll houses and Barbie dolls, designer jeans and 14k gold earrings.

And she grew up... and grew away from me.

As children have a way of doing. She grew beautifully, if I do say so... and from her first instant camera at age six, began taking... and developing, magnificent pictures. Everything she did, she did well... skating, skiing... swimming... sewing... cooking.

A year ago, bent on independence, she moved into her own apartment, with my blessing, two blocks from home.

She has grown into a bright and beautiful 21-year-old. A physics major... a strawberry-haired Farrah Fawcett with an overbite.

No child was ever more wanted... ever more loved... and still is 21 years later. Those years flew away like spider webs... in the wind.

Happy Birthday, Susan! I'm so glad we met. I wouldn't have missed a day of your life.

Top of the town

DEAR FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS:

We thank you for being so patient and waiting for us while we toured the south of Europe and the east of Scotland the past year.

Actually, our world tour was very nice. We got to meet some new people and make some new friends.

WE HOPE THAT nobody expects us to act goofy like we used to, because during our touring we got cultured.

SPECIAL THANKS to Ann Marie Novitski and to all those nice people at the unemployment office (oops, at the Bureau of Employment Security — Job Service).

AND TO THOSE guys and gals over at Hendrick Manufacturing: you're all great. Even you, Dean Swingle... one of these days somebody will catch you hiding that handtruck.

SPEAKING OF HENDRICK, didja ever wonder why the flag of Kentucky and California are sometimes flown on the flagpole in front of the office?

Those flags are flown whenever a representative of the Hendrick Manufacturing Co. plants in Kentucky or California is visiting the home office in Carbondale.

SINCE WE have had so many requests for the Top of the Town Car of the Week feature, we present the first-in-a-long-time Car of the Week, the James, introduced in 1911.

We have no jokes about the automobile, but it does give us an opportunity to mention James Burke of Childs.

He will soon don his Supercharger tie and sportcoat to return to his teaching duties at the Roosevelt Elementary School in Carbondale.

As the school year progresses, we'll be bringing you some of the adventures of Supercharger.

Only kidding, Jim!

WE WOULD BE remiss if we didn't print a joke in Top of the Town... as soon as we think of one. Ah, yes.

Two caterpillars were crawling across the grass when a butterfly flew over them. They looked up and one nudged the other and said, "You couldn't get me in one of those things for a million dollars."

UNTIL next week, keep those donations coming in, in care of Top of the Town, Carbondale Mirror, 64 Fairbrook St., Carbondale, Pa., 18407.

Jermyn council apologizes to magistrate

By N. Waters

District Magistrate Donald A. Yurgosky of Jermyn appeared before a regularly scheduled meeting of the Borough Council on Thursday evening, and accepted apologies for "accusations" said about him during the July 9 session.

Council President Idris D. (Donald) Edwards and Jermyn Patrolman Harry Egro both apologized to the magistrate for allegedly taking him to task during a "hot-under-the-collar" misdemeanor meeting in July.

Yurgosky rose during the public portion of the meeting, stating that he had "listened to the tape of the July 9 meeting four times." He accused Edwards, Egro and Councilman Robert Westington of charging him with "not doing his job, playing politics and throwing out too many cases."

"I have my records for the last 7½ or 8 years, with me," Yurgosky emphasized. "These cases are not being thrown out. Of 1,096 cases in the 7½ years, I have an 83 percent to 85 percent conviction rate. Any more than that and you wouldn't need a magistrate."

Edwards replied, "I grant you an apology. I was only thinking out loud. Sometimes I do run off at the mouth. I understand you run an honorable court."

Egro, who was in attendance with Police Chief Alfred J. Zaborowski and Patrolmen James J. Reilly and Howard A. Walton, also apologized publicly to Yurgosky, and they shook hands.

Westington, however, stated he "did not remember saying or making the derogatory statements," and would not comment until he and Yurgosky heard the tape again in private.

Patrolman Reilly requested that council meet with the police officers for a discussion of the police pension plan, and Edwards agreed.
